YFU Student Exchange

YFU was originally established in the United States in 1951 to build friendship between young people of the United States and Germany after World War II. It grew rapidly and in 1977 became established in Australia and in 1985 in New Zealand.

We observe strict child safety protocols at every stage of your exchange including the selection of host families. You are supported throughout your program by a network of professional YFU staff and volunteers. You always have someone to turn to for advice and support.

YFU Student Exchange is approved as a student exchange organisation by Education Departments in every State and Territory in Australia and with the Ministry of Education in New Zealand.

FAQs:

Will my country of choice be guaranteed?

Yes. YFU Student Exchange guarantees your country of choice provided you meet the criteria for placement in that country and we have places available for that country.

Are there any language requirements to go on exchange?

In most countries there is not a language requirement but check the destination pages on our website for specific requirements.

Will I have to repeat a year when I return from exchange?

The answer to this question depends on the year you are in at school, the school system requirements and the length of your exchange. You should speak to your school as soon as possible about how your exchange may affect your school enrolment. YFU Student Exchange cannot guarantee that you will be able to access all subjects your current school requires while you are on exchange. Some credits for study overseas may be available in some school systems overseas.

Can I talk to someone who has been on exchange?

Yes you can. When you apply and have been accepted for exchange we can put you in touch with a returned exchange student who has been on exchange to your country of choice. They can give you advice and answer any questions you may have about being an exchange student.

Do you have any suggestions on how to talk to my parents about going on exchange?

Invite them to come along to an Information Evening, you can register via our website. This will help them understand more about YFU Student Exchange and what's involved in being an exchange student. Our staff are very happy to talk to your parents about the benefits of going on exchange. Ask them to call us on 1800 654 947 (free call Australia) or 0800 833 624 (free call New Zealand).

I have a pre-existing health condition. Can I go on exchange?

It depends on the pre-existing health condition. Minor health conditions such as allergies will not generally stop you from going on exchange but can restrict where you are placed. More serious health conditions (eg diabetes) if they are controlled by medication will not stop you from going on exchange but you would need to discuss your condition with us and we would need to make sure our partner in your country of choice would accept you. Please talk to our staff about your circumstances.

How does YFU Student Exchange choose a family for me?

Host families come in different shapes and sizes including two parent families with children, single parent families with children or couples without children. YFU Student Exchange works hard to match you with a family with similar interests but the primary requirement is that they are willing to open their home and hearts to you. All host families are interviewed in their homes and are subject to a screening process, criminal and background checks, in accordance with the regulatory requirements of the host country

Hosting:

A Rewarding Experience for Everyone

YFU Student Exchange is always on the lookout for great Aussie and Kiwi families that are willing to open their homes and their hearts to an exchange student.

The most important requirements are to:

Make their exchange student feel genuinely welcome

Help the student become part of their family

Support the student through the ups and downs of their exchange

Immediately inform YFU Student Exchange of any issues affecting the safety and wellbeing of the student.

All host families are required to have Working with Children checks and sign a Code of Conduct.

You can host a student for either 2, 3, 5 or 10 months. They all arrive with a basic level of English and are expected to participate in daily chores around the house. They have travel insurance and medical insurance and bring spending money for incidentals like toiletries and outings, etc.
